HENRY STEVENS, COLORED, BEFORE MAYOR CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Had Quarroled With George Nickens, Also Colored, Over a Purchase-City Council Meeting.

> Evening Star Bureau, No. 701 King street, Bell Telephone No. 106,

ALEXANDRIA, Va., October 3, 1901. A colored man named Henry Stevens was in the dock at the police court this morning on the charge of assaulting George Nickens, also colored, with a stone. The complainant was badly cut on the head and one of his eyes was seriously injured. It was testified that the prisoner provoked an encounter with Nickens yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock at a little store conducted by the latter at the corner of Payne and Cameron streets. Mayor Simpson assessed Stevens $50, with the alternative of ninety days on the chain gang.

The disturbance at the corner indicated created great excitement in the vicinity and attracted a large crowd. According to the evidence adduced at the hearing Stevens entered Nickens' store early in the afternoon and quarreled with the proprietor about a purchase that had been previously made. The two men went together on the sidewalk, and in the scrimmage Nickens, it is said, bit one of Stevens' ears. They were then separated, but Stevens was so incensed that he again attempted to get at Nickens. The latter, however, had reentered his place of business and barricaded the door. Tries to Reach Nickens.

The assailant tried hard to get in, but failed, although he bombarded the door with stones. In the meantime Policeman Griffin had heard of the fracas, but when he appeared Stevens had skipped, it is stated, and the officer went to the station house and procured a warrant for his arrest, intending to pick him up wherever Later in the afternoon, according to the report. Stevens, watching his chance when the officer was not in sight, managed to get at Nickens and strike him over the eye with a stone. He then set out up North Payne street on a dead run. Special Officer Park, who was near the scene, gave chase and overtook the fugitive about a mile outside of town. Stevens was so exhausted that he made no resistance. Officer Griffin also entered the race and conducted the prisoner to the station house. Upon the arrival of a physician Nickens was found in a semi-conscious condition. He was bleeding profusely from the cut on his temple. He recovered when his wounds were dressed.

City Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the city council was held last night for the purpose of passing upon the action of the board of fire wardens in voting for an appropriation of $2,100 for repairing the Columbia fire engine. A resolution ratifying the action of the wardens was unanimously passed. Preceding this action there was considerable discussion over the matter. A communication from the mayor stating the object of the meet-ing was read and Mr. Risheill, president of the wardens, at the request of Chairman provements needed by the Columbia engine. The principal item was a new boiler. It was stated also that the hydraulion engine needed elliptic springs.

Councilman Bryan wanted to know what effort had been made to have the work done in the city. Mr. Rishelll stated that the wardens had communicated with several local machinists, but without satisfac-tory results. The contract had then been submitted to a fire engine company of Seneca Falls, N. Y. It was stated that the engine would be practically new when the repairs were completed. The sum of $4,200 was given as the cost of a new engine of the same pattern. On motion of Mr. Snew-den the action of the fire wardens was indorsed, the resolution also including te-pairs on the hydraulion engine. Council then adjourned.

General Matters.

Fire destroyed the platform around the factory at the Virginia glass works plant yesterday afternoon. The department responded to the alarm, but did not go into service, as the flames were quickly extinguished by employes of the company. Mrs. Florence E. Young, wife of Mr. Howard H. Young, former clerk of the Alexandria county courts, died suddenly yesterday at the family home, "Spring Hill," near Glen Carlyn, Va. She was fifty-six years of age, and is survived by her husband and five children. She was a daughter of William S. Darrel of Washington. Arrangements for the funeral will be made later.
The will of the late Julia A. Hollinsbury has been admitted to probate in the corporation court. William H. May was named as executor and the property was left to J. T. Sherwood for life.

A business meeting of the Epworth League M. E. Church South will be held in the lecture room of the church tomorrow events.

MR. SCHNEIDER SUSTAINED.

Contention Regarding Flour Inspection Upheld by Court. Mr. Charles Schneider was today charged

n the Police Court with selling bread from flour that had not been inspected. 'The charge was dismissed by Judge Kimball. This was regarded as a test case, and in reference to it Prosecuting Attorney Pugh said: "This decision of Judge Kimbail renders the law nugatory as far as it may apply to bakers, and will necessitate an amendment which will include flour that is sold as well as flour that is baked into "This is a judicial determination of a matter that was brought to the attention of the District Commissioners, before whom Mr. Schneider contended that the law did not apply to him as a baker.

"Judge Kimball held in today's decision that there is a material defect in the wording of the penalty clause of the law, and for that reason he was unable to enforce its wful Details of the Disaster at Balangiga.

MANILA, October 3.—The latest advices from the Island of Samar give harrowing details of the slaughter of the members of Company C, 9th United States Infantry, last Saturday, at Balangiga. It seems that the presidente of the town, claiming to be friendly, led the assault in person. On hearing of the slaughter Col. Isaac D.

Derussy of the 11th Infantry started for the scene immediately with a battalion. The body of Capt. Connell had been tied at the heels, saturated with kerosene and partly burned. Forty-five bodies had been burned in a trench, leaving seven unaccounted for. The charred remains of many were recovered. In numerous instances the bodies had been

THE SOUTH LOVED MCKINLEY. Won by His Earnest Efforts to Pro-New Orleans Pleayune.

The sincere regard which the people of this city, in common with those of the entire south, cherished for President McKinley, is not a mere transient sentiment galvanized into existence by the sad and sudden fate which overcame him; but it is the should have held in such regard a chief magistrate who was a northern man and den fate which overcame him; but it is the grief with which friendship and affection accept the loss of a beloved object, joined to the sense of indignation and outrage at the atroclous crime by which this loss was inflicted.

If it is asked why the people of the south should have held in such regard a chief magistrate who was a northern man and If it is asked why the people of the south should have held in such regard a chief magistrate who was a northern man and the standard bearer of a political party to which the people of these states have been constantly opposed, the answer is not difficult. It was because that northern man loved the south, and used his tigh office as much as he could to heal its wounds and right the wrongs under which its people had suffered.

It was through political sectionalism that the greatest wrongs and the heaviest losses had been inflicted on the people of these southern states, and it was under WcKinley's administration that the chasm which had so long been open like an impassable gulf of hate, between the north and the south, was most nearly closed, and it was through his special exertions and desire that this noble work of justice and righteousness had been accomplished.

It would be manifestly unjust to President Cleveland to forget his carnest and active labors in that direction, and how he appointed southern men to the cabinet, to ambassadorships, and to places in every department of the national service; but he gard for the democratic south. It was only a northern President, who was also a republican, that could perfect this great work, and that man was William McKinley.

It was a noble and holy work, and well was it done. In the course of it he many times gave expression to his desire to realize that the republic was once more a union, not merely by virtue of statutes and bands, but once more a union of hearts and bands, but once more a union of hearts and bands, and it was in an address before

"Four years have gone since I lest me the people of Georgia in public assembly. Much has happened in the intervening time. The nation has been at war, not within its own shores, but with a foreign power—a own shores, but with a foreign power-a war waged, not for aggrandizement, but for our oppressed neighbors, for freedom and amelioration. It was short but decisive. It gave new honors to American arms. It has brought new problems to the republic, whose solution will tax the genius of our people. United we will meet and solve them with honor to ourselves and to the lasting benefit of all concerned. The war brought us together, its settlement the lasting benefit of all concerned. The war brought us together, its settlement will keep us together. Reunited! Glorious realization! It expresses the thought of my mind and the long-deferred consummation of my heart's desire as I stand in this presence. It interprets the hearty demonstration here witnessed, and is the patriotic retrain of all sections and of all lovers of the republic.

The republic.

"Reunited—one country again and one country forever! Proclaim it from the press and pulpit; teach it in the schools; write it across the skies! The world sees and feels it; it cheers every heart, north and south, and brightens the life of every American home. Let nothing ever strain it again! At peace with all the world and with one another, what can stand in the pathway of our progress and prosperity?"

dous noise is not necessarily a signal of danger, while some never can be taught to ignore the rattle of musketry.

Your correspondent has had the pleasure of visiting the farm of a trainer of war horses, situated in the wilds of Texas. In in the center of the circle, with the horses facing him, gave the signal to the attend-ants to be in readiness, and fired three chambers of a revolver in rapid succession.

Instantly there was a great commotion. The main difficulty in training a war Most of the horses reared and plunged, and horse is to accustom the animal to the it was only with the greatest difficulty that some of them were prevented from break-ing away and racing madly about the field. A few, on the other hand, did nothing more than prick up their ears and toss their heads, and these were promptly taken away for test. The more restive ones, of course, were subjected to the revolver shots until need only to lasso a few thousand wild horses in Texas, ship them off to Manila they could face them unflinchingly.

The second test is much more severe. The horses are galloped up to a supposed com-pany of infantry, who fire simultaneously as soon as the animals have got properly into swing. The first volley usually plays havoe with the formation of the advancing though most horses can be quickly trained to face the most withering fire, many are very difficult to convince that a fremendous noise is not necessarily a signal of danger, while some never can be taught to at closer range—and the formation is once more deranged,

This maneuver is continued until familiarities, situated in the wilds of Texas. In a field adjoining the stables I found, ranged in a circle ready for instruction, some three dozen fine horses, including a few three dozen fine horses, including a few It Means Ostracism.

Foul breath and disgusting discharges due to Catarrh make thousands of people objects of aversicn. Hen. George James of Seranton, Pa., says: "I have been a martyr to Catarrh for twenty years, constant hawking and dropping in the throat and pain in the head, very offensive breath. I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The first application gave instant relief. After using a few bottles I was cursed. Sold by F. S. WILLIAMS, 9th and F. sts.; EDMONDS & WILLIAMS, 3t and Pa. ave. 14 This maneuver is continued until famil-nected, and the report of firearms, consequently, for him has no terrors whatever.

The whistling of bullets and the screaming of shells—unknown, of course, at the maneuvers at home—while insignificant details to the horse, are sadly full of meaning to the man, and often enough do our soldiers envy the ignorance of the horse—the "ignorance which is bliss."

Elevators in Canada. From the London (Ontario) Advertiser.

A source of danger in cities which is apt to be overlooked is the operation of ele-vators. Elevators in factories, according to the factory inspector's report, are equipto the factory inspector's report, are equipped with necessary safety catches and automatic gates and doors. But there are many elevators which do not come under the jurisdiction of the factories act, and which consequently are not under inspection; those, for instance, in offices, stores, warehouses, and public buildings, should be placed under the same or similar inspection as those in factories. Liability to accident would be appreciably lessened were each municipality to assign the duty of inspection to one of its officers, or appoint a special officer for that purpose. Let all elevators be inspected at regular in-

The American publishes a telegram today giving an account of the fight. It says the fight was long premeditated, and the Fillpinos were called to commit the slaughter by the ringing of church bells at daylight. They got between the soldiers, who were breakfasting, and their quarters. The insurgents were mostly, armed with bolos, but they had a few rifles with them.
